Ristaino had several skydivers in his balloon at an altitude of about 1,500 feet when they noticed the storm on the horizon. ### TWC Students Do Mission Work

Spring break for most college students means a break from classes and a trip to the beach. For six Tennessee Wesleyan College students, however, this year's spring break was an opportunity to commit to a week's worth of mission work in one of the top ten poorest countries in the world. Maci Shelton, Justin Greer, Justin Walker, Tara Bugg, Sara Phelps and Sydney Varajon flew to Guatemala to spend a week installing new cooking stoves in village huts and assembling playground equipment for an elementary school. The group, shown below, was led by the Rev. Dr. William McDonald, TWC associate professor of religion and chaplain.
